

ABSTRACT

An adjustable tracked side-delivery hay rake for use in agriculture for is to be employed on the fields for collecting the hay in tidy haycocks, provided with adjustable wheels movable between a raised and narrow position, suitable for transport and based on the presence – on the arms supporting said wheels – of universal joints that allow movements in all directions, with the purpose of obtaining an easy working, a simple construction and a low realization cost.